

When my family brought home Mable, a 6 month old Great Dane we were expecting a big lazy dog that wouldn't have enough energy to cause much trouble. We had quite the rude awakening. Mable was extremely timid and anxious with tons of energy and we didn't trust her around strangers. She would cower against me and walls when I would bring her to the vet. She began to take off and terrorize the neighbors and livestock, and just not listen in general. By the time she was 1 she was too large to control physically (125 lbs.) for me and I was the one that had to bring her to the vet appointments etc. These vet visits were total chaos and very frustrating for me as well as for the vet. My husband and I were contemplating finding Mable a new home but my children absolutely loved her.

After a humiliating trip to the groomers I contacted Victor out of pure desperation. I was physically shaking and on the verge of tears when I made the phone call and Victor patiently listed to me explain my frustrations and doubts about our dog. I decided to give training a try as a last ditch effort to keep our dog. Within minutes of meeting Victor and our first training session I could actually see a difference in her behavior. I couldn't believe my eyes. Over the next several weeks and lots of training and walking, Mable began to feel more at ease because she actually believed that I would protect her and keep her safe. She looked at me in a different way, not as a comforter but as her leader. As part of our training I brought Mable back to the vet to see if our training really made a difference when it counted most. My big giant dog was much calmer, behaved and cooperative because I had the tools I needed to handle her effectively. I was so incredibly proud that I rushed home to let Victor hear about our success!!!

My entire family is so grateful to Victor for his help and strongly encourage anyone considering bringing a new dog home to call Victor FIRST. Sincerely,
